Ready, Set, Innovate!

Kids around the country have come up with awesome ideas for tech tools that help people, including:

a seatbelt alert that lights up and flashes when you forget to buckle up an app that blocks websites from tracking kids' activity online an app that translates American Sign Language to help deaf and hearing people talk to each other a digital water bottle that tells you when you're dehydrated

a drone that delivers medical supplies to help wounded soldiers

Now it's your turn!

What kind of digital innovation would you create? How would it help make your community a better place?
